

We should definitely limit the number of tv and radio stations a single company can own. Media concentration is frightening, dangerous, and Orwellian. If the general public was made aware of the broad power and influence of companies like Clear Channel, it would depose the media terrorists who let it happen.

The fact that this is even possible makes me weep for the future. It's time for the pendulum to swing back the other way. Decentralize. Democratize. Censorship and group-think is unAmerican.
